CONTENTS

I. Manuscripts and Extended Reports

Speech Synthesis as a Tool for the Study of Speech Production -- Franklin S. Cooper, Paul Mermelstein and Patrick W. Nye .......... 1

The Study of Articulatory Organization: Some Negative Progress -- Katherine S. Harris ................................. 13

Phonetic Perception -- Alvin M. Liberman and Michael Studdert-Kennedy .................................................. 21

Cardiac Indices of Infant Speech Perception: Orienting and Burst Discrimination -- Cynthia L. Miller, Philip A. Morse and Michael F. Dorman ......................................................... 61

Cinefluorographic and Electromyographic Studies of Articulatory Organization -- Thomas Gay .......................... 77

Stimulus Dominance and Ear Dominance in the Perception of Dichotic Voicing Contrasts -- Bruno H. Repp ......................... 93

Voicing-Conditioned Durational Differences in Vowels and Consonants in the Speech of Three- and Four-Year Old Children -- Lawrence J. Raphael, Michael F. Dorman and Donna Geffner ........... 115

EMG Signal Processing for Speech Research -- Diane Kewley-Port .... 123

Perceptual Test of a Phonological Rule -- Linda Shockey ............. 147

Adaptation of the Category Boundary Between Speech and Non-speech: A Case Against Feature Detectors -- Robert E. Remez ........... 151

II. Cumulative Index (SR-1 - SR-49) ........................................ 171

Author Index ................................................................... 172

Title Index .................................................................... 211

III. Publications and Reports ................................................. 237

IV. Appendix: DDC and ERIC numbers (SR-21/22 - SR-48) ............. 239